| Description (max. 100 words)      | Master's thesis involves a formal self-designed research on a chosen topic, conducted under the mentor's supervision and submitted in written form. It has a clear structure, consisting of the following sections: table of contents, introduction, theoretical framework/literature review, methodology, research, results, discussion, conclusion, references. The topic chosen must be related to the curriculum. The topic is chosen by the student, and approved by the mentor and the Academic Council. A master's thesis completion requires an oral defence evaluated by an academic committee convened for that purpose, consisting of the mentor and two members from the candidate's department. |                     |   |                                 |   |
